Trading Room & Member Chat Room Rules

Creating a successful and respectful trading environment is crucial for the success of Top Gun Traders Edge – and to your personal evolution as a proficient and successful independent trader. Here are our trade room rules, goals, and etiquette guidelines that all members are required to follow to maximize the trade room's effectiveness for all members.

Trade Room Rules and Goals:

1. Follow Moderator Instructions: Members should follow the instructions provided by the moderator regarding trades, market analysis, and overall conduct during the session.
2. Chat Policy: Because Top Gun Traders Edge is presently an educational signal service room only, there is no chat amongst members during the live webinar broadcast (it is disabled). This is to prevent distractions to other members and to the moderator. Members' focus should be 100% on what is taking place on the screen visually as well as listening for moderator comments and audio/visual trade alert signals. Note regarding microphone/talking: There is no microphone use and/or talking by members during the session. Members are muted to prevent accidental distractions to other members and moderator. This is a fairly standard practice among online trade rooms.
3. Moderator Questions: Members may submit questions to the moderator (via the webinar chat feature) during the trade session, however they will not be answered until the trading session is completed at approximately 11:00 a.m. EST. Questions should only relate to: Trade set ups, trade execution and management, trading related advice, and similar topics. Once the more in-depth education and mentorships begin, those will likely take place in an online classroom environment as well as a dedicated session for members who elect to take part in those optional programs. Post trade Q&A sessions are limited to 15 minutes due to time constraints.
4. Profitable Signals: Provide high-quality, well-researched trading signals to help members make informed trading decisions and improve their trading knowledge and ability to assimilate market information and execute trades accordingly.
5. Consistency: Consistently deliver accurate signals and maintain a reliable trading room schedule.
6. Risk Management: Emphasize the importance of proper risk management and educate members about responsible trading practices.
7. Transparency: Be transparent about the execution around our trading strategies and the signals generated as well as navigating difficult price action areas where trade signals are not as clear.
8. Community Building: Foster a sense of community among members through shared trading experiences and discussions.
9. Continuous Improvement: Regularly seek feedback from members to improve the quality of signals and overall trading room experience.

Trade Room Etiquette:

1. Listen to the Moderator: Pay attention to the moderator's instructions and explanations during the session.
2. Be Patient: Avoid rushing into trades. Wait for the moderator to provide clear signals and reasoning. Please read THOROUGHLY through the “How Our Service Works” (“How Our Trade Room Operates”) and “Trade Examples” of the website for explicit trade examples, screenshots, and videos. There will typically be some ‘gray’ area for individual member decision regarding entries. However, once we receive a trade “trigger”, typically entries are one of the following: 1. Full position via MARKET order 2. Partial position (MARKET or LIMIT), followed by REMAINDER of position on price action confirmation 3. Full position on price action confirmation. 4. (Occasionally) we may add using a LIMIT ORDER if price breaks a key market or technical level. 5. For MARKET STRUCTURE trades, because they are technically ‘fade’ trades and based on major areas/levels of technical confluence, we almost always utilize a RESTING LIMIT ORDER.
3. Respectful Communication: Regarding chat during the trading session, use it respectfully to ask questions related to the trading signals or strategies (See above). Refrain from bombarding the moderator with too many questions at once. Allow him to manage the session effectively. Remember, questions submitted will be answered AFTER all trading has finished.
4. Gratitude: Express appreciation for profitable signals and the effort put in by the moderator.
5. No Disruption: Ensure that your background noise, distractions, or technical issues do not disrupt the session (as all attendees are muted, this should not present any issues). However, keep this in for any online conversations that utilize microphones.
6. Feedback: Provide constructive feedback via email to help improve the trading room's quality and effectiveness.

Members Skype Chat Room Rules:

1. Respectful Behavior: Members must treat each other and the moderator with respect and professionalism. Any form of harassment, hate speech, or personal attacks will not be tolerated.
2. Focus on Trading: Members should maintain the focus on trading-related discussions, strategies, and signals. Off-topic personal conversations should be avoided. Many members read the Skype conversations during off-hours and should not have to sift through personal conversations and unrelated material.
3. No Self-Promotion: Members are prohibited from promoting their own products, services, or trading strategies within the trade room.
4. Confidentiality: Members should not share the trade signals, or any proprietary information provided in the trading room with non-members or on public forums. Breaking of this rule will result in expulsion from the chat room and from Top Gun Traders Edge.
5. No Investment Advice: The trade signals provided are not personalized investment advice. Members should conduct their own research and consider their risk tolerance before executing any trades and remember that all signals are for educational purposes. This is in accordance with the required government disclosures, policies, and disclaimers each member was required to have read and acknowledged during the subscriber checkout process.

6. No Disruptive Behavior: Disruptive actions, such as excessive noise, sharing irrelevant content, or intentionally causing technical issues, are not allowed.
7. Suspension of Chat Room Privileges: Members will be given two (2) warnings for breaking any of the above rules. If a third occurrence takes place, the member will have their Skype Chat Room access revoked for one month.
